

A guide to Inclusion Ireland Membership

INCLUSION IRELAND

National Association for People with an Intellectual Disability

What does it mean to be a member of Inclusion Ireland?

People with intellectual disability are at the centre of everything we do.

We bring people together to talk about what equality and rights mean to them.

We support people to share their experiences and take part in decisions about them.

We listen to our members and use their views in our work to make Ireland more inclusive for everyone.

What do you get when you are a member of Inclusion Ireland?

Our members are part of a movement for change.

Our members get to have their voices heard.

Our members get the Inclusion Ireland newsletter and updates.

Our members have access to information and advocacy supports.

Our members can attend Inclusion Ireland events and training.

Our members can take part in our consultations.

Our members can take part in our research projects and research we support that other organisations do.
